

I want to teach my friends about simple tools that help fight misinformation. For example reverse image search. Many photos online come from another country or another year. If my friends know how to check images they will not be fooled. I also want to teach them to look at comments because sometimes other people already found mistakes. Another thing I want to teach is that some images have very strange details when you zoom in. Hair, eyes or hands look weird when a photo is edited. I want my friends to know that it is not a shame to check twice. Many people do not know that edited images can change how we think about a person or an event. So I want them to learn how to slow down and watch carefully. We all have phones and internet, so we can do these checks very easily. I think this will help my friends stay more safe and also help others around them.
